Project Description

The goal of the U.S. Study Abroad Branch is to increase diversity and participation in study abroad among U.S. students.

We do this by managing our scholarship programs, building capacity for study abroad at U.S. and foreign institutions, aggregating resources from U.S. and foreign governments on our website, and demonstrating the value of studying abroad.

To do this work, we need dynamic, engaging content for our social media platforms and website. Working with the U.S. Study Abroad Branch in Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, you will help tell the stories of Critical Language Scholarship and Gilman Scholarship Program alumni and our partners in higher education by creating infographics that highlight our work through quantitative data and creating dynamic visuals that showcase our program participants, alumni, and their activities.

We are looking for someone creative, who has an eye for design, and who can create visual narratives using data.
